The author

Elizabeth Montfort, a graduate in Law and Philosophy, was a Member of the European Parliament from 1999 to 2004. Her commitment to the Christian roots of Europe in the Preamble of the Constitutional Treaty gave her the opportunity to meet several children and grandchildren of Charles and Zita from Austria. Since 2004, she has been responsible for France for the League of Prayer for the Canonization of Charles of Austria and currently she is Secretary General of the Association for the Beatification of Empress and Queen Zita, wife and mother of the family.

Charles and Zita of Habsbourg

The spiritual journey of a couple

Following the path of marital holiness of an extraordinary couple

Key points :

- the first ever joint biography of this famous princely couple.
- Charles of Austria is already beatified, the beatification of his wife is in progress.
- a biography from a marital point of view as an example for today's couples
- "A Christian destiny which is faithfully evoked" by Jean Sevillia, who is the best-selling author of biographies of both personages :

Archduke Rudolf of Austria: "I perfectly recognise the spiritual life of my grandparents through this magnificent story".

Beginning like a fairy tale and a marriage of love, the life of Charles, the last emperor of Austria, and his wife Zita becomes a tragedy: war, slander, solitude, betrayal, exile, Charles' untimely death... And yet there is no bitterness, no criticism. On the contrary, forgiveness nourishes their hearts.

So what is the secret of their married life in order to keep this humanly difficult, if not impossible, attitude? This is what this book reveals as Charles and Zita journey through their life of faith, courage and abandonment to divine Providence; a life of oblation for their people, the summit of which for Charles is the ultimate offering of his own life. An offering with which Zita is fully, but painfully, associated. A life framed by Charles' words: "Now we will help each other to go to heaven", on the morning of their wedding day, and "I love you for ever more. In the sacred heart of Jesus, we will meet again", a few moments before putting his life into the hands of the Father.

A wonderful example for all couples and parents seeking a path towards God

A Pope who is on the road to Beatification

First Biography in France

Born into a modest Italian family, John Paul I was not considered the favourite candidate when he was elected in 1978 to succeed Paul VI. His election was the result of a compromise and his simple and approachable style breaking with Vatican traditions quickly became apparent. His sudden death after 33 days of papacy continues to fire the imagination of story tellers around the world to this very day.

At the start of the 20th C the extraordinary life of the "second curé d'Ars"

A complete biography

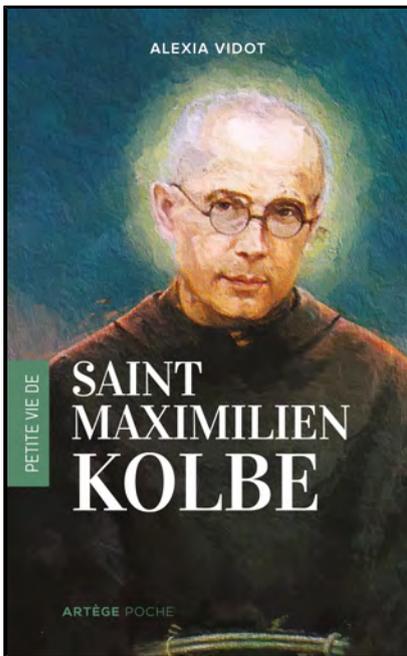

A key author who is the specialist of spiritual biographies and the history of the Church.

His Bishop called him the "second curé d'Ars".

What is remarkable about his humble life (1853-1931) is the extraordinary fruits of so modest a man : as a poor parish priest, he lived with the intimate spiritual presence of the Virgin Mary. As an educator in the slums around the north of Paris his voice was listened to by the circle of great intellectuals around Jacques and Raissa Maritain. Without any funds he launched a pilgrimage and laid the founding stones of the Servants of Jesus and Mary Congregation.

This comprehensive biography of an extraordinary life also sheds light on the period in between the 2 World Wars proving decisive for Catholic renewal.

Small life of Maximilian Kolbe

The prodigious life of a modern-day saint

Key points :

- a spiritual biography of unprecedented depth
  - the first long-awaited text, written with splendour
  - preface by Martin Steffens

Maximilian Kolbe (1894-1941) was a figure of resistance to Nazism. A Polish Franciscan, he died in Auschwitz in order to save the life of a man about to be executed. His dazzling life is recounted here by an alert pen that highlights the sparkling character behind a life sacrificed for others.

Extract from the preface by Martin Steffens :

"This book will provide some biographical element that one did not know about. But that is not the essential part of what this Petite vie de Maximilien Kolbe offers us. It contains a tone, something lively and light, which contrasts with the cliché - in the first sense - of the seriousness and, let's admit it, the "leadenness", of the fate of the martyred priest, who died in the bunker at Auschwitz. To follow Alexia Vidot's voice is to move towards the tragic, heroic, and in short: impressive end of Father Kolbe's life, but without reducing his journey to its mere end. Alexia Vidot gives the journey a life of its own. So Father Kolbe's death appears a little differently. And how ? Like the master stroke of a great player".

The Petite Vie Collection SAINT PAUL

An encounter with Christ's passionate apostle

Key points :

- from the successful series of small spiritual biographies PETITE VIE
  - Saint Paul is a pillar of the Christian faith
  - The author is a recognized biblical scholar

Saint Paul is the missionary par excellence. He was a man with a rich personality, attracting some, irritating others. He was a Jew of Pharisaic tradition, proud to be a Roman citizen. Persecutor of the first Christians, but caught up by Christ himself on the road to Damascus. Struggling to be recognised as an Apostle, then launching himself onto the roads of Asia Minor and Europe. Passionate about Christ, with a jealous zeal for his communities. Apostle of the communion, ever ready to reprimand Peter, upset by the opposition of so many Jews to the Gospel. Theologian of grace, revealing to us the depths of the life of faith, hope and charity. He who had put the pagans onto the road of the Gospel, completed his road in Rome, as a martyr.

More than a simple biography, this book encourages its readers to discover, for themselves, Saint Paul's letters always so bursting with life, and ever so topical.

What is a mystic ?

When God becomes obvious

Discovering an exceptional spirituality, that of a mystic

Key points :

- a great specialist in spirituality, author of numerous works
  - mystics, exceptional beings that we know little about
  - news of personalities such as Padre Pio, Marthe Robin, the visionaries etc...

The word mysticism has lost all precision in the last two centuries, that is, since the Romantics applied it to all the irrationality they attributed to religious experience.

Its most classical Christian meaning is that of a particularly lucid perception of the mystery of God: this is how it entered the Christian vocabulary with Clement of Alexandria in the second century, to designate the at least partial unveiling of "our hidden life in God with Christ".

Beginning by listening to the mystics themselves, this book addresses the questions that this type of experience poses for Christian understanding: how and why do mystics share their experience with us? What is the place of mystics in Christian revelation? How can we verify the authenticity of their experience? How can we understand phenomena such as visions, stigmata, levitation, etc. that sometimes accompany mystical experience?

Key points :

  - a common question : Does God act in our world or not? And if so, in what way and how is it compatible with our freedom ?

How does God intervene in our lives? Is He uninterested in us? But if He does intervene, are we really free? Father Aguila robustly shows us how we can discern God's presence in the events of our lives, how He acts in a considerate way but without forcing our hand... The first and the last word of the Gospels is an announcement of Joy. The first and the last word of existence is also an announcement of Joy. "We have no other duty than Joy". This statement by Paul Claudel is that of a convert whose character would have been very dark without his encounter with God.

" After ninety years on our tiny earth, and having spent most of my time listening to the joys and anxieties of my fellow human beings, I am more and more convinced that the end of everything will be a joy that goes beyond any of our most insane dreams. God is joy because God is love".

The ILLUSTRATED wisdom of the fathers of the desert

Maxims and other spiritual gems

The wisdom of the fathers of the desert in an illustrated format

Key points :

- the age-old wisdom of the fathers of the desert in illustrated form
- these texts have nourished the spiritual life of Christians for centuries.
- for the first time put into images in order to make them more accessible to as many people as possible with a humorous tone that embraces the piquant spirit of these words of fathers gifted at putting their finger on the turpitudes of the human soul

The Apophtegmus of the Desert Fathers is a collection of anecdotes and words, attributed to the hermits and monks who populated the Egyptian deserts in the 5th century.

These stories illustrating the spiritual life of these monks constitute a great classic of Christian literature. They have nourished the spiritual life of entire generations for centuries. For the first time, these tales, rich in wisdom, are presented in pictures to make them more accessible to everyone. The humour of these plates matches the pungent spirit of these words of the fathers who put their finger on the turpitudes of the human soul. A magnificent spirituality that everyone can thus discover.

When life runs smoothly we don't need God. ...then all of a sudden, when difficulties start building up, we are at a loss... yet Christ has always told us He is there to carry the burden of our suffering. In this small treatise, Father Descouvemont, author of many spiritual works, provides guidance - illuminated by the Bible - on how to surmount hardship. We must show humility in order to turn to and lean on God, as it is in our weakness that He will pour on us His torrent of consolation.

Only Jesus

Back to the basics

---

Rediscover hope, a book to get out of spiritual numbness

Key points :

- a very literary spiritual text
  - a message of hope at the end of these confinements and at the beginning of Lent
  - a text that invites you to find the essential beyond the material and moral difficulties and the anguish that is rising
  - the priest, the faithful, Christ ... how best to live our lives with Him and in Him.

"How can we fail to discern in the now faltering globalisation the ultimate version of the Tower of Babel, the ruthless attempt to bring about the merciless reign of a godless elite? Jesus will put an end to the commodification of the world, he will make "the economy that kills" disappear, in the words of the Holy Father. Let's not cling to the obsolescence, because "it is passing the face of this world. "(1Co 7, 31) The future of the old world is already old, only grace is young."

Confined like all of us, Father Faure gives us a profound meditation with a tone as incisive as the style is poetic on his role as a priest to each person, what it may well mean to be the pastor of the souls entrusted to him, and all this in the shadow of Jesus. A book to get out of the numbness and open our eyes to our priests, Christ and the passing world.

From the collection Classics of Spirituality

The work is a series of spiritual letters on the importance of surrendering to divine action in Christian life.

The work was long attributed to Jean-Pierre Caussade, a Jesuit born in 1675 and a spiritual master. It is now known that he was not the author.

Composed in the first half of the 18th century, possibly by a woman, it was read and copied among the entourage of Madame Guyon, and then among the Visitandines who wanted to pay tribute to an admired master.

He who only had one talent

The light of numbers in the New Testament

Rediscover the spirituality of the Bible, through the most original of paths, the symbolism of numbers

Key points :

- numbers and their symbolism, a traditional yet somehow forgotten way of entering into the spirituality of the Gospel:
  - many texts of the Gospel speak of numbers, and are generally very well known to the public ...
  - seen from the very educational angle of these symbols and their links, the Gospel takes on new spiritual colors
  - a resolutely general public text that never falls into a scholarly discourse

Numbers are omnipresent in the texts of the Bibles : the multiplication of the loaves, the parabol of the talents, the eleventh hour labourers or the five foolish virgins. But what if we were to question whether numbers served a greater role than just that of mere decor? What if they were to reveal the astonishing coherence of God's plan for humanity merging together within a marvellously constructed piece ? Staying well within a purely spiritual path the author reveals a new dimension to the texts of the Bible allowing us to fully savour them in a freshly new light.

The authentic Marthe Robin

A false mystic? A response to Conrad de Meester

---

In response to the recent controversy, this is another portrait of Marthe Robin

Key points :

- the author knew Marthe Robin well, is a friend of the family, and has sound knowledge of Marthe Robin and her life
- following the major controversy caused by the publication of Conrad de Meester's book on Marthe Robin as a false mystic.

Called a fraudster, accused of lying and incriminated of plagiarism and concealment, the attack was violent with only the prosecution under trial ! As. the venerable Martha does not need to be defended from where she is, in the Light. However, many were scandalised and hurt, first of all those who knew her closely without recognising her in a truncated portrait.

Relying on extensive documentation gathered over the past 40 years and on his training in mystical theology, and with the help of many unpublished first-hand accounts, Pierre Vignon takes up the pen to examine and discuss the brutal allegations. If mystery still exists around her life, he shows us that there are no shadows left for us to ever doubt the authenticity of Martha as a Catholic mystic.

Yes, desires! We can talk about them! Love is something we don't talk about often enough ! The truth about desire is that it's a good thing! Maybe not all desires, some desires are sometimes selfish, or blind. But the fact that one is a being of desire is a positive, excellent thing! God has made us like this, beings of desire. God has put impulse in every life ! Even atoms have impulse, movement, a force of attraction and perpetuation. God has put desire in us !

And this desire is a GIFT!

- An author with extensive experience in the school world;
- Thanks to his 25 years of experience in the field, his approach is also accessible to any parent who is committed to educating their child;
- a modern vision of education imbued with humanism and based on Christian anthropology
- There is very little existing literature on the subject and no work synthesising theoretical principles and practical applications.

Integral education is based on the overall vision of the child beyond that of a simple « bag of knowledge », aiming to contribute to the child's development as a whole. Based on Christian humanism, it is a very modern vision of education at a time when benchmarks are fading and educational structures are struggling. The knowledgeable author develops an approach accessible for any parent who is keen to educate their child. ## A Christian view on .....sophrology.

and its techniques for relaxing and managing emotions

The benefits and dangers of sophrology

Key points :

- a short and precise book on the origins and methods of personal development techniques that are not well known
- a Christian point of view that is rarely presented
- the first volume in a series inviting discernment in relation to new spiritual phenomena

The "What to think" collection aims to provide answers to the many questions raised by alternative medicine and personal development methods. It begins with sophrology by explaining its history, updating the principles that govern it and its effectiveness.

Faced with the multitude of unverifiable and fanciful sources that are rampant on the net, the challenge is to provide clear, documented information in a synthetic form.

It is also to confront the philosophical principles that govern it with Christian doctrine.

God's silence, man's silence.

Pandemics, war, catastrophe.....But where is God ?

How to explain God's silence in a mad, bad world.

Key points :

The rector of Notre Dame Cathedral ponders evil having experienced the drama of the inferno and now the Covid pandemic.

A reflexion on a never-ending question all believers are grappling with.

Is it because we are unable to instill silence into our own hearts that we are unable to hear God ?

How should we react when we are overwhelmed by life's difficulties?

Mgr Chauvet explains very simply how we can adopt a fair and spiritual attitude to transform our distress. Without ever quashing the legitimacy of our suffering he goes beyond rational reasoning to trace a path for each of us to find inner peace without being overwhelmed by the outrage generated by the badness of the world in which we live.

Like burning hearts

The extraordinary testimony of the converts

Key points :

- the central subject of conversion ... how and why does one convert? the author being herself a convert
- the personal testimony of the author and that of exceptional personalities whose conversion was dazzling but often unrecognized
- a young author recognized for her literary quality

Every authentic conversion is the miracle of an encounter. And a loving encounter heralds a story that is more unique, original and exceptional than ever when one of the two happens to be God.

Converted at the age of 20, Alexia Vidot initially reveals with modesty her own experience of this burning of love that cannot be healed.

And in order to approach - as much as possible - the divine work in the soul of the converted, she draws a spiritual portrait of seven men and women of the 20th century, the most different there are, and whom God seduced at the right moment so that he would never let them go: the French cartoonist Marcelle Gallois, the Rwandan couple Daphrose and Cyprien Rugamba, the American journalist and radical left-wing activist Dorothy Day, the European aristocrat and socialite Alex-Ceslas Rzewuski, the young KGB henchman Sergei Kurdakov, the Japanese doctor Takashi Nagai and the Roman fundamentalist Bruno Cornacchiola.

A book burning like these witnesses of Love.

The easy way to..... start believing !

The Keys to the Kingdom are under the doormat

How and why do we believe?

Key points :

- In the manner of the Alan Carr series Easy Way to ...: this is a simple method to believe in God.
- a path for anyone who wants to understand why and how one has faith
- 7000 copies sold in large format

Believing is probably the most decisive act of our destiny and probably the least considered, the least thought about, the least studied.

Ask a believer why he believes in God, why he puts his trust in Christ. You will usually find only an embarrassed silence surrounded by more or less embarrassed answers. It is difficult, it is true, to give an account of an extraterrestrial love, in the first sense of the word.

Why do you believe in God? The world keeps asking the question, tenderly or violently. Christians do not always seem to be very determined to give an answer.

This book offers a path for all those who want to open the doors of the Kingdom or understand why so many people have walked through. Enter, then, one at a time.

Serge Abad-Gallardo is a former senior territorial civil servant who spent more than twenty years in the Masonic lodges of Droit humain, an offshoot of the Grand Orient. # The conversion of a Freemason

How God brought me out of the darkness of the lodges

The testimony of the life of a son of an anticlerical family, who became a freemason of high rank and who one day discovers God and follows him passionately

Key points :

- an intimate book that reveals an anticlerical childhood, far from God, which is the common lot of many people.
- a beautiful and profound spiritual conversion
- his books have been translated into several languages

At the twilight of his life and gnawed by a serious cancer, Serge Abad-Gallardo has devoted these last years of his life to denouncing the imposture of Freemasonry. With nothing left to prove, he delivers here the story of his life, that of a young man born into an anti-clerical family, far from God, who dreams of leading "a good life".

With its appetite for social ascension, Freemasonry is a convenient vehicle; he invests himself in it, climbs the ladder, becomes a grand master, everything seems to smile on him ... and then doubt sets in, with the discovery of financial shenanigans, a dry disembodied ideal dedicated to the success of an ideology that disturbs him to the depths of his soul. ... and from doubt comes mistrust, the fall, the exclusion from a universe that is merciless to those who step out of line; and his unquenched thirst finds a source to drink from,

God ... long sought after, finally found, and a spiritual journey that illness, far from extinguishing, will crown. It is the fascinating story of this thirst for the absolute and for truth that is told here as a last farewell, with the spirit finally at peace.
